Day 1 Reykjavik  Thingvellir National Park  Gullfoss Waterfall  Geysir Geothermal Area  Reykjavik

Tour Overview

The Silfra Fissure is located in Thingvellir National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Once our minibus arrives there, you will listen as your experienced certified PADI Dive Master provides a safety briefing. Then, you will receive all of the necessary equipment for snorkeling in Silfra, including neoprene hoods and gloves, a thermal undersuit, a drysuit, and of course mask, snorkel and fins. This equipment will keep you floating throughout your time in the fissure, as well as offering a protection against the cold glacier water. As you are swimming you will have the opportunity to move across continents, as you will be swimming between the North American and Eurasian tectonic plates, which is one of Thingvellir's most famous characteristics. Even more, the stunning shallow oasis will be presented before your eyes at the end, "the Real Blue Lagoon". Upon exiting the water, you'll be invited to warm up with hot chocolate with your friendly guide. After the tour is over you will receive the free GoPro underwater photos in your email. [Thingvellir National Park] We visit the place where the two tectonic plates, the North American and the Eurasian plate, are moving away from each other. Thingvellir is also an important place for Icelandic national history. The name "Thingvellir" translates to "Parliament Plains". [Gullfoss Waterfall] The melting water from Iceland's second biggest glacier, Langjökull, falls into a deep canyon forming the majestic "Golden Falls". [Geysir Geothermal Area] The Geysir geothermal area hosts many colorful hot springs. One called Strokkur is a geyser, which erupts every 5 minutes up to 35 meters. Back to Reykjavík Our return to the Reykjavík capital area is planned for approximately 5 pm; however, the schedule order and return time may be subject to changes based on weather and road conditions.
